HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY

Samarkand State University has played the invaluable role in the international recognition of Samarkand science and culture. Today SamSU is one of the oldest and largest higher education institutions in Central Asia, and although it has been officially operating since the beginning of the XXth century, its historical roots go back to the times of Mirzo Ulugbek (XVth century). During the reign of the Timurids, who were the promoters of science, spirituality and enlightenment, a solid ground for the development of science and education was created in the territory north of Amu Darya, and in particular in the city of Samarkand. A number of madrassas built by Sahibkiran Amir Temur, his children and grandchildren were places of enlightenment that provided religious and secular knowledge. In particular, the scientific school created by Muhammad Taragay Ulugbek, the pride of Uzbek science, and the greatness of its potential is recognized today by the scientists across the world. Mirzo Ulugbek madrasah in Registan Square is undoubtedly the "cradle" of Samarkand higher education, its organizational basis and foundation.

Abdurahmon Jami, Alisher Navoi, Ali Kushchi, Mavlon Nafis Samarkandi, Badakhshi studied in this "Alma-mater" and later taught science. Representatives of Mirzo Ulugbek's astronomical school Giyosiddin Kashi, Jamshid ibn Masud, Qazizoda Rumi, Ali Kushchi, Muhammad Khawafi taught secular sciences such as mathematics, astronomy, basics of calculation and geography at that madrasa.

Thus, the roots of Samarkand State University go back to the times of Mirzo Ulugbek.

The authoritative literary scholar, academician Boturkhon Valikhodjaev, in his book "The Madrasahs of the times of Mirzo Ulugbek", comes to the scientific conclusion that Samarkand State University is the direct secular successor of Mirzo Ulugbek Madrasah, and the history of its establishment dates back to the history of Mirzo Ulugbek Madrasah (1420 AD).

In these early years, Samarkand State university had departments of socio-political sciences, physics, engineering, natural sciences, and philology. During its existence, the higher education institution has delivered several hundred thousand highly qualified specialists, the most famous of whom were people such as: Ibrahim Muminov, Sulton Umarov, Ubay Oripov, Yahyo Ghulomov, Alovuddin Bahovuddinov, Vohid Abdullaev, Akbar Otakhujaev, Akobir Adkhamov, Toshpulat Shirinkulov, Boturkhon Valikhodjaev, Said Shermuhammedov, Shavkat Vohidov, Tolib Muminov, Kabular Academician Muhsin Ashurov Dozens of artists, such as Hamid Olimjon, Uigun, Mirtemir, Usmon Nosir, Habib Yusufi, Sharof Rashidov, Askad Mukhtor, as well as statesmen, cultural figures and scientists grew up at this university. Based on this university, Samarkand's

Agricultural, Medical, Services, and Foreign language institutes grew into independent universities.

The current development and history of our higher education institution at different times is directly related to the activities of Merkulovich, K. Abdullaev, A. Valiev, H. Fayzullaev, M. Muminov, R. Olimjonov, K. Zokirov, A. Tulaganov, V. Abdullaev, E. Turakulov, A. Otakhuzhayev, Sh. Alimov, M. Zhurakulov, T. Muminov, J. Sattorov, T. Shirinov, O. Khalmukhamedov and R. Khalmuradov.

About 30 000 undergraduate and graduate students are studying at the university in more than 39 fields of study. They include more than 82 doctors and professors. More than 420 candidates of sciences and associate professors, more than 1000 professors and teachers teach in Uzbek, Russian and Tajik languages at SamSU.

Uzbekistan Finland Pedagogy Institute, Samarkand State University Kattakurgan branch, Samarkand State University Urgut branch, Institute of Entrepreneurship and Pedagogy Denau branch are attached to the University.

Nuclear Physics (Founder Prof. Muso Muminov), 3. "Magnetism" (Founder and Professor O. Kuvondikov), 4. Space Physics and Astrophysics ( Founder and the head of the department is Professor B.Mahmudov).

In addition, 2 separate directions were separated and developed from the Optical Science School. Nonlinear optical direction (Scientific adviser prof.L.M.Sobirov) and direction of Molecular luminesology (Scientific supervisor prof.N.Nizomov).

Currently, the Faculty of Physics has 5 departments: optics, general physics (head of the department associate professor Z. Shodiev), theoretical physics and quantum electronics (head of the department prof. N. Eshkobilov), solid state physics (Head of the Department, Associate Professor S.
