11.2.2

Does your university as a body provide public access to libraries including books and publications?

Library, Samarkand State University

Notice

Library of Samarkand State University named after Sharof Rashidov has more than 2.8 million of books, articles, reports, memoirs and historical documents. Library procures and preserve many important documents as record.

In order to provide access of knowledge and information for common public, Samarkand State University's library notifies general access to common people except students for utilizing library resources for reading books, searching information and other resources. If you like to utilize these resources, kindly bring at least one identity card during working hours.

We will serve you with happiness.

Librarian
Samarkand State University

Tokhirova M.