

11.4.8

Does your university as a body build new buildings to sustainable standards? (If "yes", are you following a national standard or body, e.g. the world green building council, that certifies it? Please indicate.)

The Vice-Rector, Construction and Renovation itself responsible for constructing sustainable buildings across the university. However, Renovation works are also prioritize in sustainable manner. In this way, Samarkand State University is committed to fulfil their national and international obligations towards sustainable development goals.

On all campuses, one can witness buildings surrounded by biodiversity including parks, and trees along roads and backsides as well. Different local trees are planted for maximizing biodiversity.