Does your university as a body provide students access to sexual and reproductive health-care services including information and education services?

Caring of women's health has always been a priority for Samarkand State University. As a university, we believe that without healthy women and girls, a healthy generation is a dream only. In order to achieve better health for females, it is very useful to promote sports and physical culture among them.

Our path is long. However, Samarkand State University is promoting females in sports and the physical arena of the world. For this purpose, we are hiring more female physical trainers to discuss female issues like sex education and reproductive problems. It is much needed to provide hassle free environment for speaking about their issues.
